Dear Annie,

Staying on top of recall news is one of the smartest ways to keep your kids safe and healthy. With more than 20 million toys recalled last year, it's no wonder nearly 60 percent of moms and dads said in a recent poll that they worry about the safety of products they buy for their kids. You may check your own toy chests regularly, but it's also a good idea to see if your kid's daycare, preschool, or school teachers are equally in the know about the toys in their classrooms. Read on for tips on the right way to talk to teachers and more advice on helping your kid adjust to school:
